Britain Adds Jets To Jordan Base

JERUSALEM (Israeli Sector) — UP—Britain was reported sending its latest type Hunter jet fighters into Jordan today to strengthen its military forces there under a defense treaty with the desert kingdom.

Relations between Jordan and Israel have been strained because of recent Jordanian attacks on Israelis and several Israeli "retaliatory raids" which killed scores of Jordanian police and Arab Legionnaires. Each has accused the other in the United Nations of "aggression."

A Cairo dispatch quoting the semi-official Middle East news agency, reported an Iraqi brigade (possibly 5,000 men) had moved up to the Jordanian border, ready to move across when asked. Other Iraqi units were reported en route to positions near the border.

There was no official confirmation of the British RAF reports, but informed sources in Amman, the capital of Jordan, said an "unspecified number" of Hunters were expected there in the next few days to reinforce the RAF's Amman airbase.

Storm Break Due Tonight

The Atlantic Coast storm was forecast to break up tonight and provide fair and mild weather tomorrow.

The rain was heavy, and driven hard by the wind. The U. S. Weather Bureau at Trenton measured .74 of an inch between the start of the downpour, 3:30 a.m. today, and 8 a.m.

Sweeping up the coast, the storm packed 40-mile an hour winds.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said the storm's center at 6 a.m. (EDT) was off the Virginia Capes and its strongest winds extended northward 250 miles.

The bureau forecast heavy rains throughout the area and possibly minor flooding. Tides were reported one to two feet above normal.

The storm was expected to be centered off the Delaware coast by noon. The bureau said heavy rains were expected to begin falling in southern New England this afternoon.

150 Miles Inland

The rain spread about 150 miles inland, reaching as far as the mountains in Pennsylvania, after lashing South Atlantic Coastal states.

All the while the vice president grabs the spotlight at that nationally televised Intercollegiate Press conference at Cornell University and it was perhaps the most interesting meeting of the campaign.

We dunno. Like Richard or not, you can't well undersell him. He's showing plenty of savvy.

We trust Philadelphia's District Attorney Blane continues using much savvy in cleaning up that sordid vice ring snaring scores of teen-age girls during the past year.

The whole sickening business a pretty sad commentary. You wonder sometimes about this shameful human depravity.

But, for heaven's sake, don't wonder about your obligation to the United Community Fund.

No soul-searching should be necessary. Make a pledge for your community's future and make it enough. Then, no doubt about your sleeping well at night.

One thing nice about these modern sports cars: If you flood the carburetor, you just put the car over your shoulder and burp it.

'Half Truth' Charges Made By President

Stevenson Denounces Nixon As A Shifty Exponent Of Expediency

By UNITED PRESS

Touring Republican and Democratic standard bearers stepped up personal attacks and hammered away at regional issues today in major campaign swings through New England, the Midwest and the Far West.

President Eisenhower charged Adlai Stevenson with "half truth" and "hit and run" statements in a speech in Seattle, Wash., last night. He also lashed back again at the Democratic presidential nominee's proposal to end H-bomb tests.

Stevenson, using some of the sharpest language of his campaign, denounced Vice President Richard M. Nixon as a shifty exponent of expediency and man of many faces in Flint, Mich., last night.

Nixon termed Stevenson a peddler of "gloom and doom" who is "selling our economy short" in a speech prepared for delivery today in Providence, R. I.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, accused Mr. Eisenhower of forcing down farm prices and jacking up interest rates to benefit big business in a speech prepared for delivery today in Joplin, Mo.

Pledges Aid To Education

The President, touring the Pacific Coast, pledged in a speech prepared for delivery in Tacoma, Wash., today to press for congressional approval early next year of his $4 billion school construction program.

He said he would ask that the school construction program be carried out in four years, instead of the five originally planned. The program was blocked in Congress this year after a segregation rider was attached to the bill.

The President also attacked Stevenson on his proposal to stop all hydrogen bomb test in a speech to a crowd of about 13,000 in Seattle.

Mr. Eisenhower said peaceful uses of the atom are the main objective of his administration.

"We simply refuse to do it all alone," he said. "Until others do it with us, we are going to stay wrong."

The President also earlier directed that top administration aides prepare detailed reply to what the White House called a speech to a crowd of about 13,000 in Seattle.

At a recent meeting of the lay visitors committee, the Rev. Ringham expressed satisfaction with progress in numerous phases of the mission.

Southampton Church Plans Mission Fete

Illinois Pastor To Be Guest At Five-Day Event

Southampton's Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd is planning the largest mission in its history beginning October 28.

Evangelism services will be conducted at the church, Street road, Southampton, each day until November 1.

The Rev. Fred E. Ringham, Jr., pastor, announced that the Rev. Richard E. Boye, an outstanding young preacher of the midwest, will be the guest missionary. He is pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church of Carthage, Ill.

The Rev. Boye is a graduate of Wittenberg College and Hamma Divinity School, Springfield, Ohio. He did graduate work at Union Theological Seminary, New York City.

At a recent meeting of the lay visitors committee, the Rev. Ringham expressed satisfaction with progress in numerous phases of the mission.

Board Approves Kemline Request, Vacates 4 Streets

The Bristol Township Board of Commissioners last night approved requests for three zoning changes and the abandonment of four "paper" streets.

At the same time the commissioners rejected an appeal for another zoning change and two others were withdrawn by the petitioners at the suggestion of the board.

The four streets vacated existed only on maps and were never built. They ran from Route 13 to the Delaware Canal between Edgely avenue and Haines road. The land is owned by the Olmar Investment Company. With the vacating of the streets the company can now develop the land.

The board approved a request for M-1 zoning of a small parcel of land owned by Kemline Incorporated, Coates avenue, Edgely. The land previously zoned residential will be used as a parking lot by the firm.

Croydon Change

The commissioners also approved a change from residential to commercial for a piece of land on Route 13 and Franklin avenue, near Croydon. The planning commission recommended the petition be rejected. A house on the land is now rented to the Bristol Township Democratic Organization which uses it as campaign headquarters.

Four pieces of land in the vicinity of the intersection of Route 413 and Durham road and the turnpike were also changed from residential to commercial on petition of Asa Smith. The planning commission recommended one parcel, a triangular piece in front of the Bristol Farmer's Market, bounded by the turnpike, Route 413 and Durham road, be retained as residential.

Ralph Kasman, chairman of the zoning committee, said the land should be reserved for development of a traffic control pattern at the site.

5000 More Expected In Next 4 Years

Township Manager Tells Businessmen Of Future Boom

A population increase of 5000 within the next four years and utilization of 60 per cent of Lower Southampton's land was predicted by Paul Flynn, township manager, who addressed the Feasterville Businessmen's Association last night.

Stressing a three-point plan of (1) bigger and better business, (2) protection of businesses already in the township, and (3) encouraging growth of industry, Mr. Flynn called for the need of cooperation between the township supervisors and the businessmen's association.

He said mutual betterment would come if the two groups worked together, and explained that the supervisors consider the association an advisory group for future development.

Speaking of the large increases in population, Mr.

Colonial Ball

The Atlantic Coastal storm put a "damper" on today's Street Fair festivities. The Fair was canceled today, its events rescheduled for tomorrow.

A Halloween party, under the direction of Fire Chief Clifford Hagerman, was one of the highlights on Mill street last night. A thousand children appeared in costume, and passed in review before Emcee Harry Hollenbach. Twenty-six prizes were awarded, with Betty Jo Bomentre, 303 Penn street, receiving the prize for the prettiest costume.

The Street Fair was telecast on two programs last night.

Substitute

Harry E. Danner, general chairman of the 27th Anniversary celebration committee, will convene the banquet tonight, and act as toastmaster until Pete Boyle, television star, drops in from the skies. Broadcasting from 6 to 6:30 p.m., Mr. Boyle will fly from his Philadelphia studio to the front door of the Snyder School by helicopter, in a quick air trip.

Other civic officials, and descendants of Bristol's founders, will be guests of honor at the banquet.

Mrs. Ann Hawkes Hutton, author and anniversary historian, will present history of the past 275 years in "The Bristol Story."

The orchestra of Jack Hopkins will provide music for the ball.

Completing banquet arrangements today with Chairman Schmidt were committee members Sheridan Metz, Mrs. Dorie Colville, Mrs. Margaret Gontar, Peter Cattani, Francis J. O'Boyle, Andrew Kazimer, and Norman Ryan. Ticket sales were under the direction of Vincent Massi.

Liquor Net

(Continued from Page One) Any commercial development would only add to the traffic congestion at the point he said. But the board approved the request for commercial zoning.

The commissioners rejected an appeal for elimination of Jangood Place, a street in Bristol Terrace I, and for commercial zoning of the part of the development which fronts on Route 13. The change was requested by the Public Housing Administration.

In rejecting the request, John S. Gallagher, chairman of the zoning committee, pointed out these homes will soon be put up for sale to present occupants. He said if the land was changed to commercial now the value of the property would be out of the reach of the residents.

Burlington County Prosecutor Martin Queenan ruled on that and said the activities of the Pennsylvania authorities were legal.

Mrs. Ruotolo Leaves Hospital

MIDDLETON, Conn.—UP—Eleanor Ruotolo, whose six-weeks old daughter was found slain last month after being reported kidnapped, leaves Connecticut State Hospital today. Mrs. Ruotolo had been voluntarily admitted to the hospital 13 days ago for help with "emotional problems."

Mrs. Ruotolo, 29, requested her release after undergoing part of a planned series of physical, psychological and psychiatric examinations at the mental institution, hospital spokesmen said.

Franklin Pupils To Get Day Off

There will be no school for students of Benjamin Franklin High School, Mill Creek parkway, Levittown, tomorrow. Teachers will attend Schoolman's Week at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia.

In a release from the school last week, the date was listed as Oct. 12, instead of Oct. 19.

2 American Medics Share Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden—UP—A German doctor who discovered a new method of diagnosing heart and pulmonary ailments and two American physicians who brought the method to a high state of perfection were jointly awarded the 1956 Nobel Prize for Medicine today.

Prof. Dickinson W. Richardson, 60-year-old professor of medicine at Columbia University, French-born Dr. Andre Courand, 61, his associate for 25 years at Columbia, and Germany's 52-year-old Dr. Werner Forssman, shared the $38,933.76 prize.

Their method involves catheterization of the heart—the slipping of a tube into the heart of a tube which permits study of the internal conditions and enhances the value of diagnosis. The medical profession has called it a milestone of medical progress.

Forssman evolved the method as a young doctor in Berlin in 1929. His colleagues at Eberswalde Surgical Clinic failed to support him in his research and he experimented on himself.

He slipped an oiled tube into his arm, pushed it through a vein up through the arm and into his heart. And with the tube still there he walked up two flights of stairs to the X-ray department of the clinic to prove his point.

Still his colleagues offered nothing but criticism and the disgraced Forssman turned his attention to urology.

His discovery caused a stir in the United States and Courand and Richards continued his work. Dr. Robert Loeb, executive officer of the Department of Medicine at Columbia, said their contributions were of "outstanding importance."

The Nobel prizes are named after Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite who died in 1896 and left a fortune for yearly awards to those who had most contributed to the benefit of mankind. The recipients of today's award had been suggested before the award was made.

Several other antibiotics previously have been reported to be active against mice tumors—actinomycin C&D, puromycin, aztreonam, and something with the nickname Don.

Attacks Farm Policies

Stevenson moved today to Ohio, attacked the GOP farm policies, General Motors in particular and big business generally. He compared what he called the plight of the farmer with the protection which he said was afforded to General Motors by the administration.

"The administration has treated the farmer like a poor and troublesome relation," he said in a speech prepared for delivery in Akron.

Then contrasting the position of General Motors with that of the farmer, Stevenson said:

"If General Motors had to depend on the weather for its production, if it had to dump a year's production on the market in a few weeks, if it lacked capital to hold goods off the market, General Motors would need protection—and from this administration that would get it."

Stevenson re-applied the label of "Cadillac cabinet" on the men around the President and said Nixon must be getting sensitive because he had instructed his staff to use no more Cadillacs in parades.

"These Republicans think of everything," he said.

Move Gives Impetus To Twp. Plan

A new township building for Bensalem got a big boost today when the school board announced it favored better facilities for the township government.

The plan for the new building has been growing since the beginning of the year. A fund for the express purpose of paying for the new building has been established.

Building Fund

Taxes have been collected at the rate of one mill per resident to put into the building fund.

Municipal offices are now housed in a three-year-old building which was built when Bensalem had a population of approximately 10,000.

The present township population more than doubles that figure.

Constant expansion of the township and a concurrent expansion of civic business makes the new building almost imperative, a township official pointed out.

Inadequacy of the present setup came to a head at the township's recent zoning hearing. More than 400 citizens attended the zoning hearing held in the garage of the township building.

Before the new building can be built, a resolution must be drawn up providing for the governmental offices.

Officials pointed out that land must be examined and a site selected upon before the building can graduate out of the planning stage into the practical stage.

Cost for the proposed building will be carried by this one mill tax. No estimate of what the new building will cost has yet been made, however.

Officials said that they need at least $15,000 in the fund before they can start thinking in terms of the near future.

Agents Arrest Julie Gibson

Julie Gibson, well-known in burlesque circuits, found out last night the State Liquor Control Board doesn't look kindly upon the "Dance of the Bashful Bride."

Liquor Control Board agents arrested Miss Gibson about midnight last night after she had completed the first show at the Wedge Musical Bar, Broad and Ridge streets, Philadelphia.

Police also took Al Neurenberg and Bud Ottenberg and Alan Sterling into custody. Neurenberg and Ottenberg are owners of the bar and Sterling is the pianist. Attorney Mitch Lipschitz accompanied the group to headquarters.

Liquor Control Board agents had previously warned all bars and taverns against allowing strip-tease dancing to take place. Miss Gibson claims her dance is "a work of art," but police contend that clothing was removed, nonetheless, constituting strip-dancing.

Miss Gibson starred in "White Cargo" at the Grand Theater, Bristol, last year and has had parts in movies.

Bell Phone Firm Adds To Building

The Bell Telephone company of Pennsylvania has started construction of a 44 by 54-foot one-story lateral addition to the Hyatt central office building for the purpose of providing space for additional dial equipment, according to Bertram D. Rearick, local manager.

The addition is scheduled for completion next spring, after which dial equipment will be installed.

Bustleton Pike Widening Has Its Problems

A parking and store-front problem may make the widening of Bustleton pike, Feasterville, difficult, the Feasterville Businessmen have reported.

Although the Feasterville Businessmen's Association has been pushing for re-development and widening of the pike, some of the merchants are concerned over its possible effect on their establishments.

Paul Flynn, Lower Southampton township manager, told the association at its meeting last night in the Buck Hotel, that the state has an 80-foot right-of-way, but explained that even if the pike were widened to a 60-foot right-of-way a difficult parking situation might result.

Edward Filemyer, chairman of the Bustleton pike re-development committee, reported that he had contacted several organizations to seek information of the proposed widening project.

No Specific Plans

However, he reported that no specific plans were made available by any of the contacts. He said state officials were asked about their plans, but reported that no reply has been made.

A spokesman for the association explained today that many of the store fronts would be too close for any great amount of widening.

S'hampton Library Has Book Problem

Failure to return books is a growing problem of the Southampton Library.

Library officials have referred the situation to committee for action in an attempt to solve the problem.

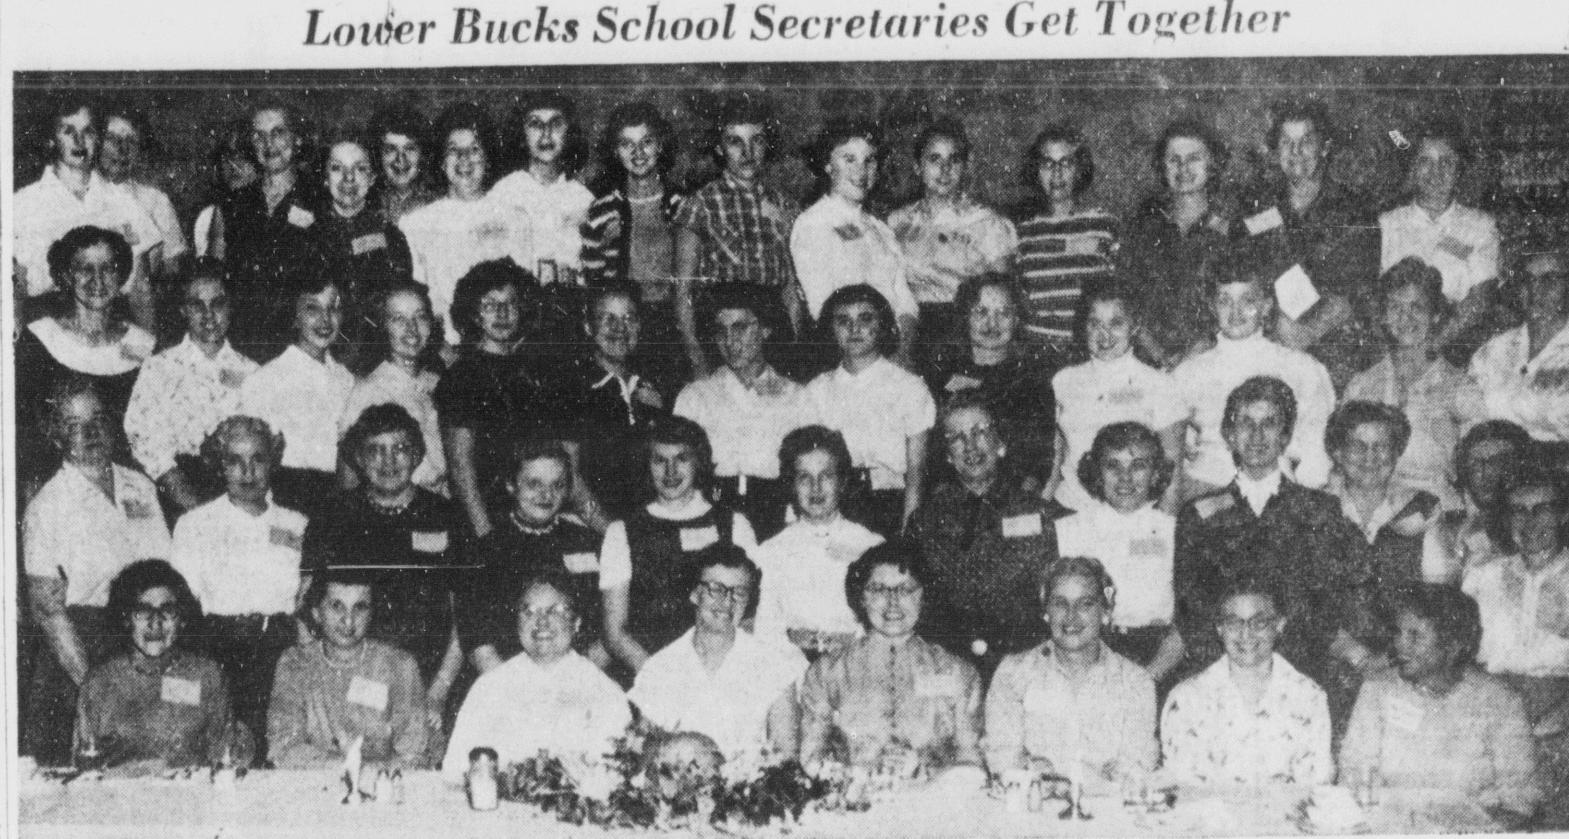

At the same time they urged residents who have over-due books to return them.

The matter was discussed at the last meeting of the Southampton Library Committee. The group meets monthly in the library building, Second Street pike, Southampton.

Ellerslie Group Names Officers

Officers for the coming year were elected at a meeting last night of the Ellerslie Civic Association.

The new officers are Neil McCarter, president; Dan Fluharty, vice president; Elsie Myers, secretary, and Marge Carr, treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mossbrook, 10 Lilac lane, are a happier couple these days since their grandson, Johnny Mossbrook of Thornridge, has been released from the Lower Bucks County hospital. Johnny had one of those freak fall that caused an injury

HAMPTON MANOR

By RUTH ANNAN
Elmwood 7-6512

Mr. and Mrs. Harold MacWilliams, 51 Miller drive, entertained friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Garrison and daughter, Willow Grove and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Bates, Hatboro, for the evening last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clauss, 48 Miller drive, had Mrs. Clauss' sisters and their families from Philadelphia, as guests on Saturday evening.

Three Boy Scouts from Hampton Manor went camping for the weekend with Troop 28 of Southampton. The boys were Bruce and Paul MacWilliams, and Frank Bachich, all of Miller drive. The trip was for fathers and sons. They camped at Hickory Run. Nineteen fathers accompanied their boys.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Whiteside, Miller drive, caught fire on Oct. 9. Southampton Fire company was called. Fortunately not too much damage was done, although the kitchen curtains were burned and the woodwork was scorched.

Mrs. Betty MacWilliams, Miller drive, was one of the lucky winners whose name was drawn from those deposited at the opening of the new market. She received free groceries.

I want to thank all the neighbors who have been so nice in asking about my father who has recently suffered a rather serious illness, and although his recovery will be slow, still he is showing steady improvement.

Joanna Cooper, Maple avenue, certainly looks nice in her Cheer Leader uniform which consists of a short black skirt and white sweater with her school's name on it. She has been chosen one of the Cheer Leaders for William Tennent High School's junior football team for the second year.

On Oct. 6 Mrs. Ruth Posch, Maple avenue, acted as one of the models in Fashion Show at Snellenburgs, Willow Grove, given by the Eastern Star Lodge of Hatboro. A card party accompanied the show, and Mrs. Agnes Luther, Maple avenue, won the table prize, a lovely bracelet. Mrs. Ruth Posch won a door prize of cosmetics. Mrs. Mae Ryan, Maple avenue, also attended and enjoyed the afternoon very much.

Mrs. Elaine Gyrock and I attended the covered dish supper of the Junior Women's Club of Southampton on Monday evening. All the food was delicious.

After the supper a meeting was held and plans have been made for a Square Dance which will be held at the School on Nov. 2. United Fund Industries Give $194,158

Schools Division Has Nearly Half Of Goal
Of $10,000

The management and personnel of Lower Bucks county industries so far have donated $194,158 to the Bucks County United Community Fund, Industrial Division Chairman Otto Grupp, 3d, announced after a meeting of his industrial teams yesterday.

Mr. Grupp's division workers, seeking a $350,000 goal, reported six large industries and three firms with less than 100 personnel have completed solicitation drives, while some six others will have the plant campaigns completed before the week is out.

The completed plant reports showed the 1957 United Fund donations to be about 20 per cent ahead of those of last year.

Volunteers are divided into six divisions in Lower Bucks county, seeking $480,000 of a $603,000 county quota, based on the crucial needs of the 17 health, welfare and public service agencies supported by the United Fund for next year's services.

Schools Total

In the schools division, meanwhile, Chairman Warren E. Ringler said that with three of 10 public school districts and private schools reporting, his drive has pledges and cash totaling approximately $4954, nearly 50 per cent of their $10,000 goal.

Mrs. James S. Douglass, chairman of the Residential Division, on Monday launched the residential drive, with a $25,000 goal. In Good Evening!

Quick shift, the weather.

We thought maybe that Florida storm would bounce up the coast into the sea somewhere along the way, but here it is.

It weren't for Bristol's 275th and the Levittown shop-a-rama birthday we'd welcome these h'yan showers after a long dry spell.

But never fear. The character who's supposed to know it all says winds will blow the clouds out of the skies by nightfall.

Stevenson steps up his war on Nixon and Eisenhower turns his big guns on Stevenson.

All the while the vice president grabs the spotlight at that nationally televised Intercollegiate Press conference at Cornell University and it was perhaps the most interesting meeting of the campaign.

We dunno. Like Richard or not, you can't well undersell him. He's showing plenty of savvy.

We trust Philadelphia's District Attorney Blanc continues using much savvy in cleaning up that sordid vice ring snaring scores of teen-age girls during the past year.

The whole sickening business is a pretty sad commentary. You wonder sometimes about this shameful human depravity.

But, for heaven's sake, don't wonder about your obligation to the United Community Fund.

No soul-searching should be necessary. Make a pledge for your community's future and make it enough. Then, no doubt about your sleeping well at night.

Two U. S. Medics Share Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden—UP—A German doctor who discovered a new method of diagnosing heart and pulmonary ailments and two American physicians who brought the method to a high state of perfection were jointly awarded the 1956 Nobel Prize for Medicine today.

Prof. Dickinson W. Richardson, 60-year-old professor of medicine at Columbia University, French-born Dr. Andre Courand, 61, his associate for 25 years at Columbia, and Germany's 52-year-old Dr. Werner Forssman, shared the $38,933.76 prize.

Their method involves catheterization of the heart—the slipping into the heart of a tube which permits study of the internal conditions and enhances the value of diagnosis. The medical profession has called it a milestone of medical progress.

Forssman evolved the method as a young doctor in Berlin in 1929. His colleagues at Eberswalde Surgical Clinic failed to support him in his research and he experimented on himself.

He slipped an oiled tube into

Bristol Goes Colonial At Ball Tonight

Have Gov. Leader
As Main Speaker

The Warren Snyder school auditorium today was being outfitted in red, white and blue decor for one of the leading events of Bristol's festive 275th Anniversary Celebration — the Colonial Banquet and Ball which will be held at 6 p.m.

Still his colleagues offered nothing but criticism and the discouraged Forssman turned his attention to urology.

His discovery caused a stir in the United States and Courand and Richardson continued his work. Dr. Robert Loeb, executive officer of the Department of Medicine at Columbia, said their contributions were of "outstanding importance."

The Nobel prizes are named after Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite who died in 1896 and left a fortune for yearly awards to those who had most contributed to the benefit of mankind. The recipients of today's award had been suggested before for the award.

NFL Outlaws Radio Signals

PHILADELPHIA — UP — The use of radio and electronic equipment in helmets of players in the National Football League was barred for the remainder of the season today by "unanimous consent of the 12 owners" Commissioner Bert Bell announced.

Bell, in a directive to the 12 teams, said "all electronic devices, including walkie-talkies to the sidelines, hearing aids of any description used to receive messages, radio equipped helmets or any other device of this nature must be eliminated for the remainder of the season."

The ban does not bar phone lines to the bench, or a phone line with extra footage used by coaches on the sidelines, Bell said.

Introduction of the equipment to direct the play of teams brought on a series of inter-team squabbles this year, including a report that one team had stolen another team's air signals and that others barred use of the equipment to visiting teams.

We trust Philadelphia's District Attorney Blanc continues using much savvy in cleaning up that sordid vice ring snaring scores of teen-age girls during the past year.

No soul-searching should be necessary. Make a pledge for your community's future and make it enough. Then, no doubt about your sleeping well at night.

Atlantic Storm Comes From Florida

Shore Resort Tides
2 feet Above Normal;
Atlantic City Hit

NEWARK, N. J.—UP—An Atlantic storm churning up the East Coast from Florida lashed New Jersey with high winds, heavy rain and tides one to two feet above normal today.

The Atlantic Coast storm was forecast to break up tonight and provide fair and mild weather tomorrow.

The rain was heavy, and driven hard by the wind. The U. S. Weather Bureau at Trenton measured .74 of an inch between the start of the downpour, 3:30 a.m. today, and 8 a.m.

Sweeping up the coast, the storm packed 40-mile an hour winds.

The New Jersey coast braced for local flooding during high tide hours.

In Atlantic City, the Coast Guard said the tip of Rhode Island Ave. had been flooded. Thirty-mile-an-hour winds buffeted the resort.

Coast Guardsmen at Cape May, N. J., reported winds up to 45 miles an hour. Heavy rain was reported throughout the southern half of the state.

The storm center was moving northeastward at about 12 to 15 miles an hour and was expected to be near Atlantic City shortly after noon (EDT).

The Weather Bureau at Newark airport said the storm would begin diminishing by "mid-day," but northern New Jersey could expect light to heavy rain until late tonight.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said the storm's center at 6 a.m. (EDT) was off the Virginia Capes and its strongest winds extended northward 250 miles.

The bureau forecast heavy rains throughout the area and possibly minor flooding. Tides were reported one to two feet above normal.

The storm was expected to be centered off the Delaware coast by noon. The bureau said heavy rains were expected to begin falling in southern New England this afternoon.

150 Miles Inland

The rain spread about 150 miles inland, reaching as far as the mountains in Pennsylvania, after lashing South Atlantic Coastal states.

most Lower Bucks communities, teams of solicitors have already begun door-to-door calls in each neighborhood.

The Public Service Division drive is well underway in its many phases — public utilities, welfare agencies, military establishments, and federal, state, and local government offices and agencies. Joseph F. Hulihan heads the drive for $24,000.

In the Special Gifts Division, Chairman Harry E. Danner reported his sub-chairmen are actively canvassing professional and retired persons, seeking a $25,000 goal. Regional solicitation teams under James D. Logan are carrying out an active campaign for $20,000 among retail establishments, in the Small Business Division.

The industrial firms whose drives are completed were commended by Mr. Grupp for, in most cases, substantially exceeding last year's returns. Solicitation is finished, he said, at the U. S. Steel Corp., Fairless Works, Rohm and Haas Co., Paterson Parchment Paper Co., Schutte and Koerting Co., Kemline, Inc., and Robertson Manufacturing Co., among the large firms; American Industries, Cornwells Chemical Co. and OKO Pflish, among smaller companies.

To Report

Soon to submit completed solicitation reports are the Stephen Leedom Co., Sears Roebuck and Co., Pomeroy's, Cornwells Industries, Badenhausen Corp. and the Bond Bread Co.

Attending the Industrial Division meeting with Mr. Grupp were Harrison Erb and Jesse Daugherty, associate campaign chairmen for the AFL-CIO, Harry Rohrbach, R. A. Nelson, Walter Riedi, Joseph Sulli, Udo W. Fischer, Jack Parker, Harold M. Caldwell, chairman for small industries, O. E. Norbeck, Stephen E. Westaby, Stewart B. Say, John Spadaccino, labor staff representative of the United Fund and Adrian Hoffman, executive director.

Mr. Ringler said donations by teachers, administrators, custodians, and bus drivers of the Pennsylvania schools total about $3600, with the drive not yet completed. Incomplete returns from Neshaminy district total $750, he said, while $603.50 was donated by Bristol borough school personnel.

Britain Adds Jets To Jordan Base

JERUSALEM (Israel) — UP — Britain was reported sending its latest type Hunter jet fighters into Jordan today to strengthen its military forces there under a defense treaty with the desert kingdom.

Relations between Jordan and Israel have been strained because of recent Jordanian attacks on Israelis and several Israeli "retaliatory raids" which killed scores of Jordanian police and Arab Legionnaires. Each has accused the other in the United Nations of "aggression."

A Cairo dispatch quoting the semi-official Middle East news agency, reported an Iraqi brigade (possibly 5,000 men) had moved up to the Jordanian border, ready to move across when asked. Other Iraqi units were reported en route to positions near the border.

There was no official confirmation of the British RAF reports, but informed sources in Amman, the capital of Jordan, said an "unspecified number" of Hunters were expected there in the next few days to reinforce the RAF's Amman airbase.

Joint Authority Accepts Building

The Lower Bucks County Municipal Authority officially accepted its new office building, on Newportville road, last night.

In a brief ceremony held in the one-story cinder block structure Oliver Marron, the architect, turned over the keys to Arthur Seyfert, chairman of the building committee of the authority.

Mr. Seyfert then turned the keys over to Charles Lucisano, authority chairman.

Following the ceremony the group inspected the building. Two former board members, Donald S. Moyer and William L. Johnson, were invited to the affair.

Refreshments were served to a group of about 20 members including the present and past members of the authority, solicitors, managing personnel, representatives of the architects and the builders.

Mr. Lucisano said the public will be invited to inspect the building during an "open house" sometime next month. No date has been set yet. He pointed out the authority members want to wait until furniture for the office is delivered before inviting the public.

He added that bids for the troublesome relation," he said in a speech prepared for delivery in Akron.

Then contrasting the position of General Motors with that of the farmer, Stevenson said:

"If General Motors had to depend on the weather for its production, if it had to dump a year's production on the market in a few weeks, if it lacked capital to hold goods off the market, General Motors would need protection — and from this administration would get it."

Stevenson re-applied the label of "Cadillac cabinet" on the men around the President and said Nixon must be getting sensitive because he had instructed his staff to use no more Cadillacs in parades.

"These Republicans think of everything," he said.

Marine Hero

City officials and the high school band met McLaughlin at the railroad station on his return from the presentation ceremony at the White House and paraded him through town with sirens screaming.

The day was proclaimed "Sergeant McLaughlin Day" in Rome. City officials said they understood McLaughlin became angry with his superior over some incident that occurred at the Marine Corps Armory, which is bedecked with pictures of the returned hero.

City officials said a drunkenness charge was placed on the books against McLaughlin but this was stricken when he was placed in custody of Checklou, commander of McLaughlin's rifle company.

Checklou, stationed since last June at the Cherry Point, N. C., Marine Corps base, told a reporter who contacted him there Wednesday night that he had not been authorized to discuss the incident. He refused to comment.

McLaughlin pleaded guilty of charges of drunkenness and absence from his outfit without proper authority and the board found him guilty of disrespect to his commanding officer and a superior non-commissioned officer.

His bravery in firing two machine guns at his outpost while under fire despite severe wounds and blistered hands on the night of Sept. 4-5, 1952, won McLaughlin the nation's top military honor.

lights on Mill street last night. A thousand children appeared in costume, and passed in review before Emcee Harry Hollenbach. Twenty-six prizes were awarded, with Betty Jo Bomenite, 303 Penn street, receiving the prize for the prettiest costume.

The Street Fair was telecast on two programs last night.

Substitute

Harry E. Danner, general chairman of the 275th Anniversary celebration committee, will convene the banquet tonight, and act as toastmaster until Pete Boyle, television star, drops in from the skies. Broadcasting from 6 to 6:30 p.m., Mr. Boyle will fly from his Philadelphia studio to the front door of the Snyder School by helicopter, in a quick air trip.

Other civic officials, and descendants of Bristol's founders will be guests of honor at the banquet.

Mrs. Ann Hawkes Hutton, author and anniversary historian, will present history of the past 275 years in "The Bristol Story."

The orchestra of Jack Hopkins will provide music for the ball.

Completing the banquet arrangements today with Chairman Schmidt were committee members Sheridan Metz, Mrs. Dora Colville, Mrs. Margaret Gontar, Peter Catani, Francis J. O'Boyle, Andrew Kazimer, and Norman Ryan. Ticket sales were under the direction of Vincent Massi.

Bell Phone Firm Adds To Building

The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania has started construction of a 44 by 54-foot one-story lateral addition to the Hyatt central office building for the purpose of providing space for additional dial equipment, according to Bertram D. Rearick, local manager for the company.

Pennsylvania Men Seen As Invaders

Chief William Forst of the Ewing Township Police said his men would continue to "question" Pennsylvania liquor agents and state troopers who "invade" New Jersey engaged in "spy activities."

"My men will continue to question Pennsylvania agents on their activities every time my men learn of such activities," Chief Forst said, "and they will request the Pennsylvania officers to notify our department whenever they are in our area on 'business.'

Yesterday, Ewing Township patrolmen questioned a state trooper and a liquor agent about their activities and the men admitted that their job was to radio information on liquor tax violators to a waiting police team on the Yardley side of the river.

"The request was made by my men," Chief Forst said, "that the Pennsylvania men notify our department when in the area. But," the Chief said, "the men didn't comment on whether they would comply with the request."

Pupils Plan Mock Election

Ninth grade students at Benjamin Franklin High School, Levittown, will participate in a mock presidential election Friday, Nov. 2.

In keeping with regulation election procedure, the students must first register at one of three registration points in the school.

In addition to "electing" a president of the United States, ninth graders at the same time will elect officers of the student council and the presidents council at the school. The presidents council consists of all individual home room presidents in the school.

Nominating Committee

A nominating committee was appointed to suggest candidates for presidents of the two councils. Other officers were nominated by students circulating petitions requiring 50 signatures.

Only students who have registered will be allowed to vote Nov. 2. Registrars will sit at polling places checking lists of those registered.

The program is under the direction of John Rosser, ninth grade civics teacher, and Thomas Seraydarian, guidance counselor at the school and advisor to the student and presidents councils.

This mock election is being held to give students an insight as to how government officials are nominated and elected.

Agents Arrest Julie Gibson

One evening this week residents of the North Park section combed the neighborhood looking for two-and-a-half year old Wendy Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hunt, 6 Nasturtium Lane. They found her in a yard of one of the old homes along Mill Creek parkway, gathering leaves, because there aren't any in Levittown.

The show must go on! Congratulations to Frank Lombardi and Faith Murray for the wonderful performance they presented in the Levittown Players production "Arsenic and Old Lace." Several days before the opening of the play, the woman who was to play the lead became ill, and Faith was called on to "fill her boots."

This involved learning the lines and action of a complete two hour production in just a few days. Lombardi also suffered a setback during dress rehearsal, when he was informed by telephone that his wife had been in an automobile accident.

Fortunately, Mrs. Lombardi was not seriously injured and Mrs. Murray learned her lines in time. Thus, the first performance of the show, Wednesday night, was a tremendous success. It will be presented tonight and tomorrow night at the Walt Disney School.

Croydon Change

The commissioners also approved a change from residential to commercial for a piece of land on Route 13 and Franklin avenue, near Croydon. The planning commission recommended the petition be rejected. A house on the land is now rented to the Bristol Township Democratic Organization which uses it as campaign headquarters.

Four pieces of land in the vicinity of the intersection of Route 413 and Durham road and the turnpike were also changed from residential to commercial on petition of Asa Smith. The planning commission recommended one parcel, a triangular piece in front of the Bristol Farmer's Market, bounded by the turnpike, Route 413 and Durham road, be retained as residential.

Liquor Control Board agents arrested Miss Gibson about midnight last night after she had completed the first show at the Wedge Musical Bar, Broad and Ridge streets, Philadelphia.

Police also took Al Neurenberg and Bud Ottenberg and Alan Sterling into custody. Neurenberg and Ottenberg are owners of the bar and Sterling is the pianist. Attorney Mitch Lipshtiz accompanied the group to headquarters.

In rejecting the request John S. Gallagher, chairman of the zoning committee, pointed out these homes will soon be put up for sale to present occupants. He said if the land was changed to commercial now the value of the property would be out of the reach of the residents.

Mrs. Ruotolo Leaves Hospital

MIDDLETON, Conn. — UP —

Eleanor Ruotolo, whose six-week-old daughter was found slain last month after being reported kidnapped, leaves Connecticut State Hospital today. Mrs. Ruotolo had been voluntarily admitted to the hospital 13 days ago for help with "emotional problems."

Mrs. Ruotolo, 29, requested her release after undergoing part of a planned series of physical, psychological and psychiatric examinations at the mental institution, hospital spokesmen said.

The young wanderer who was the object of a city-wide search in Philadelphia was located in the Levittown Parkway last night by Tullytown Patrolman Pat Cola.

Ptl. Cola saw the boy walking on the Parkway, his face dirty.
